Project Summary: Ignacio High School was renovated and expanded in 2015 to combine the existing junior high and high school buildings into one unified campus. The school is designed around a three-sided courtyard which is the heart of the school and campus. Classrooms wrap a flex area that offers opportunities for small groups, individual learning, and larger student gatherings. A new office addition creates a controlled building entry and serves to unite and organize the plan. A strong sense of the unique community heritage is reinforced with modern images inspired by Southern Ute attire and ceremony.
